The Cornwall Library is taking steps to protect patrons against the Corona Virus.

Dear Cornwall Library Patron,

The Cornwall Library is making every effort to protect against the spread of corona virus. Please call the Library at 860-672-6874 or email Margaret at director@cornwalllibrary.org if you any questions about the steps we are taking as described below or suggestions as to what we might consider in addition.

Here is what we have done so far:
We have doubled our routine cleaning services and closed the water fountains.
We are disinfecting heavily used surfaces several times each day. These surfaces include keyboards, door knobs and handles, the circulation desk itself, among others.
We are “quarantining” books. The virus can live on the page of a book for several days so we are holding returned books before putting them back into circulation.
Curb-side service! If you think it best to avoid entering the Library, please give us a call or email and we will check your books out to you and bring them to your car or leave them out for you to pick up (only during working hours.)
We will be consulting with groups meeting regularly in the library to create some guidelines for how the meetings are structured.

This is what we want you to do:
Please do not come in if you are not feeling well or if you have been exposed to someone who has come down with the virus.
Please wash your hands thoroughly when you first enter the Library.
Please look into downloading books using Overdrive. You can call the Library for instructions.

The Board and staff will continue to stay informed of new developments as well as following recommended best practices.

Here are some links you might find helpful:

Dear Cornwall Library Patron,

The Cornwall Library is making every effort to protect against the spread of coronavirus.

Please call the Library at 860-672-6874 or email Margaret at director@cornwalllibrary.org if you any questions about the steps we are taking as described below or suggestions as to what we might consider in addition.

Here is what we have done so far:

We have doubled our routine cleaning services and closed the water fountains.

We are disinfecting heavily used surfaces several times each day. These surfaces include keyboards, door knobs and handles, the circulation desk itself, among others.

We are "quarantining" books. The virus can live on the page of a book for several days so we are holding returned books before putting them back into circulation.

Curb-side service! If you think it best to avoid entering the Library, please give us a call or email and we will check your books out to you and bring them to your car or leave them out for you to pick up (only during working hours.)

We will be consulting with groups meeting regularly in the library to create some guidelines for how the meetings are structured.

This is what we want you to do:

Please do not come in if you are not feeling well or if you have been exposed to someone who has come down with the virus.

Please wash your hands thoroughly when you first enter the Library.

Please look into downloading books using Overdrive. You can call the Library for instructions.

The Board and staff will continue to stay informed of new developments as well as following recommended best practices.

Here are some links you might find helpful:
